Managing Benefits Costs
from the CFO's Perspective

Summary

Benefits and HR professionals work in tandem with their colleagues in finance and accounting in managing their organizations benefits plans from health and dental to 401(k), PTO, etc. There is a lot of collaboration on budgeting, funding, accounting, investment management, contracting and service provider management. Internally managing the plans as well as the costs of benefits is part art, part science, with many meetings in the middle.

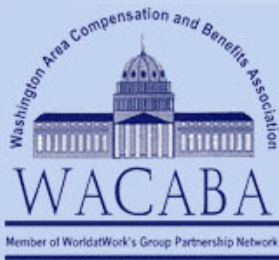

Please join us on June 16th for a unique opportunity to gain the insight of a special panel of financial and accounting professionals to hear firsthand how they work with their benefits and HR colleagues. Our panel will provide an overview of their experiences and perspectives on topics including:

- Managing the annual renewals and the budget process,
- Evaluating strategic alternatives and plan design options,
- Assessing wellness programs with high value impact, low measurable ROI,
- Monitoring investment performance of retirement plan assets, and
- Coordinating the month to month accounting interactions and financial reporting.

The panel will not have any presentation content so the only way for you to gain the insight of the panelists will be for you to attend the meeting. After addressing the topics above and others, the panel will answer your questions.

About Our Panel

Our panel includes four finance and accounting professionals; Dan Gahr, WBB Consulting / Craig Anderson, Henry M. Jackson Foundation / Brian Gieseler, Tatum / and Marc Saitta, AAMVA. Our panel facilitator will be David Downer, Towers Watson.
